Preventing to Shelter in Place - Practical Tools for Households, Work Places, Schools and Early Childhood/Youth Programs, and Governments

Provider: New York Academy of Medicine’s Redefining Readiness

Course Description: To enable people and organizations around the country to strengthen their shelter-in-place preparedness efforts, the SGD findings have been used to create sets of specific issues for households, work places, schools and early childhood/youth programs, and governments to consider. Available in English and Spanish, these issue sets are designed to make people in each group aware of important issues that are within their purview to address and to stimulate their thinking about contextually appropriate solutions.
